Comments in support of various Calendar bills
Presented by: Anne Carson, President

Since 1988, the 308,000 members of the Virginia PTA have supported returning control of the school year calendar to local authorities. They want the ability to be able to tell their school boards which side of a Labor Day start works best for their communities. They want to be able to have a more direct hand in how their school year is designed. And in 77 of 132 districts, they do just that.
